the driver door of the black vehicle appearing agitated. ² from ran toward the store's front entrance away from Franco.

McZeal approached Franco and talked to him in an attempt to deescalate the situation, which appeared to McZeal to be domestic violence-related. McZeal told Franco, "Hey, you know what, have a seat," and "Hey, why don't you go ahead and sit down." Franco did not comply with McZeal's requests. Franco was looking in the direction in which are ran, and did not appear to be paying any attention to McZeal. Franco began pacing back and forth agitatedly, breathing heavily, still speaking incoherently. McZeal stated, "It was like he was walking and then he would turn slightly and then he would walk back and toward her direction and then he would turn. Then he would walk back in her direction and it kind of seemed like he was trying to decide what to do. Whether he was gonna stay there, whether he was gonna run, whatever he was gonna do." In describing Franco's behavior, McZeal stated, "I believed is that he was on some type of a drug. I didn't exactly know what it was... it appeared like he was high."

McZeal stood approximately five feet from Franco during their initial contact near the entrance to a car wash on the property situated to the side of the store. McZeal asked Franco if the car he just crashed belonged to him (Franco). Franco responded, "Is the patrol car yours?" McZeal, who was worried due to Franco's odd behavior, requested other deputies respond to assist him. McZeal told Franco not to go toward who had walked out of the store and was standing close to the store entrance. Franco walked toward McZeal's patrol car and stopped approximately two feet from the driver door. McZeal was worried that Franco was going to gain access to the shotgun located inside his vehicle.

McZeal stepped toward Franco, whereupon Franco lunged at McZeal, grabbing McZeal's shoulders with both hands. McZeal yelled, "Stop!" Franco slid his left hand toward McZeal's waist. McZeal felt the pressure of Franco's left hand on his holstered service weapon. McZeal stated, "At that point, I'm thinking he's trying to kill me...[A]nd he's trying to remove my gun and if he gets my gun out that he's going to kill me." Franco placed his right hand on McZeal's shoulder or waist, controlling McZeal's movements. McZeal stated, "It appeared that he was trying to hold me while he was reaching for my gun." McZeal pushed Franco's left side away from his gun.

Franco again came forward, his left hand reaching toward McZeal's gun. Believing Franco was trying to take his gun and kill him, and fearing for his life, McZeal unholstered his duty weapon with his right hand, pointed his weapon at Franco in a close contact position, 6 and fired three rounds

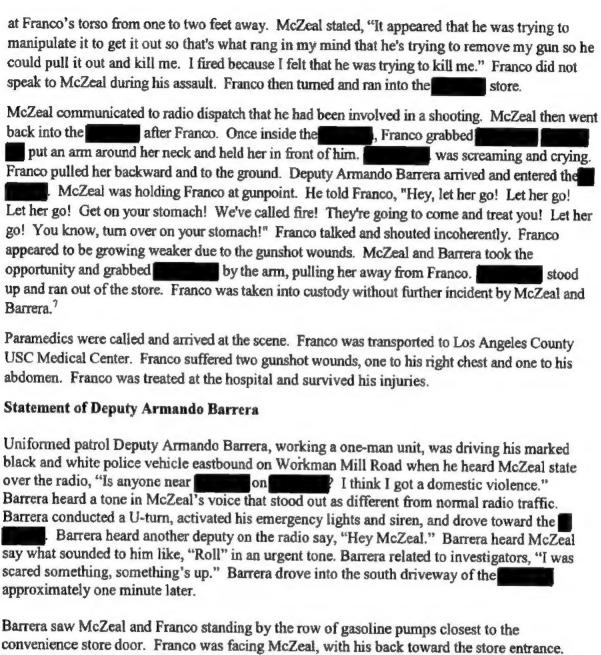

² Video surveillance cameras recorded both the interior and exterior gas pump areas in front of the convenience store.

³ A ziplock baggie containing methamphetamine, as well as two hypodermic syringes, were ultimately found in the vehicle Franco was driving.

⁴ McZeal told investigators, "I got on my radio and I turned to L-Tac [a tactical radio channel] and I said, "Hey, you know what? I need a couple units over to the gentleman over here, there was a car crash, and it appears like it might be some type of domestic violence situation, and he's acting a little weird.""

⁵ McZeal is 5'8" and approximately 165 pounds. Franco is 6'00' and approximately 240 pounds.

Barrera saw McZeal and Franco standing by the row of gasoline pumps closest to the convenience store door. Franco was facing McZeal, with his back toward the store entrance. Franco appeared to have both his arms holding McZeal around the waist area of McZeal's body, with his hands at McZeal's mid-back area in a bear hug. Barrera came to a stop, exited his patrol vehicle and hurried toward McZeal to help him. Barrera saw McZeal push Franco away from his body with both hands, then take a bladed stance with his gun (right) side farthest away from Franco. McZeal was closer than arm's reach to Franco. McZeal held out his left arm, with the elbow slightly bent, toward Franco's body, trying to protect himself from Franco, who came toward McZeal as if for a fight. McZeal simultaneously drew his service weapon with his right hand and pointed it from his hip area toward Franco. Barrera heard two to three shots. Barrera could not hear if any words were being exchanged between McZeal and Franco. Franco backed away from McZeal, turned and ran through the front doors and into the McZeal ran after Franco. Barrera ran after McZeal as he asked if McZeal was okay. McZeal yelled, "He tried to grab my gun!"

McZeal turned his body slightly sideways in relation to Franco.

Statement of In the evening of October 30, 2018, was taken by Franco against her will from Stockton and driven to Los Angeles by him in her vehicle. 10 On November 1, 2018, at approximately 2:20 a.m., Franco exited the 605 Freeway, perpendicularly crossed all of the lanes of traffic on Pellisier Road, jumped the curb and drove onto the little lot, first hitting a sign, and then a truck parked in the lot before coming to a stop. Immediately got out of the car, crying, and saw that "...[T]here was a cop [McZeal] there, already...I saw the cop come toward us and he said 'Hey, what's going on? What happened?" walked past McZeal, screaming hysterically, and yelled repeatedly at Franco, "I hate you! I can't believe you did went into the store without talking to McZeal, because she wanted to get away from Franco. She bought an iced drink, then walked back outside. walked outside, she saw, "...Rashaad [Franco]...fighting the deputy, or wrestling, or whatever you want to call it but making contact with him...Rashaad was like...it looked like wrestling kind of but standing...in a struggle...and I yelled at Rashaad, like 'Rashaad!'...I felt like Rashaad's arms were trying to. .like pin the deputy's arms...like Rashaad had him to where he couldn't move his arms so freely." The thought it looked like Franco was trying to grab McZeal's arms. "I saw Rashaad's arms around the deputy...what I saw wasn't correct or okay...." yelled Franco's name because she wanted Franco to leave McZeal alone. Franco was moving toward McZeal and McZeal was backing away. did not hear any sounds coming from either McZeal or Franco during the incident, "I feel like I tuned out." looked down, then heard one shot and looked up. heard Franco scream and jump in reaction; she then saw smoke and watched Franco run into the store. She sat down outside and to the side of the convenience store, and waited to be interviewed. Franco told that he had fought cops in the past, although she had never personally seen him interact with officers before this incident knew Franco to be violent toward her personally.

and Franco were previously in a second ended the second when Franco stole her car, crashed it, then struck her in the face in Northern California. She reported his actions to the police Based upon a conviction related to these actions, Franco was on formal probation with a valid criminal restraining order prohibiting contact with ⁹ Barrera's impression was that McZeal was so close to Franco that McZeal did not have sufficient space to bring his gun up to the normal shooting height.

| Statement of The State of Stat |

| was interviewed on November 1, 2018. On November 1, 2018, at approximately 2:20 a.m., McZeal was in the convenience store chatting with her. She heard tires screeching and a boom, then looked outside and saw a car jump the curb, hit a store sign, then his vehicle. McZeal ran outside. Went into the back room and told somebody crashed into her car. They both ran out of the store's front entrance to check on car. Saw saw screaming hysterically and uncontrollably, run into the McZeal went toward Franco, who had just gotten out of the driver's side of the car. Franco did not have anything in his hands. Could not hear what was said due to screaming, but it appeared to her that McZeal was trying to calm the driver down and find out what was going on. It seemed to that Franco "wasn't trying to be cooperative with him [McZeal] He [Franco] looked kind of like out of it, like a weird daze, I guess" |
| Franco was backing away from McZeal at first. and and went inside the store intended to call her manager to report that the store sign had been struck by a car. grabbed her phone, went back outside, and tried to call her manager. saw, "The guy was like trying to confront the officer. And the officer, I heard him say, 'Back away,' or 'Back up,' or something, but he kept onHe [Franco] was getting really close' cause the officer was backing up trying to get to his car and he [Franco] kept coming forward at him[McZeal also told him] 'Calm down." |
| McZeal was calling for back-up, as he was physically backing slowly away from Franco, who had his hands extended out from his body. called out to Franco, "Calm down." In response, Franco looked in her direction with a look she interpreted as, "Bitch, who the fuck are you to tell me to calm down?" Franco appeared "agitated, irritated, like botheredlike he gives no shits what's going to happen." Franco kept going forward "at the deputy aggressively" |
| From that point everything happened so fast that she did not have a clear recollection of what she saw did not know who touched who first, but saw that McZeal and Franco had their hands on each other as they stood, struggling, between the gas pumps and the patrol car, moving closer to the pumps. There was a lot of movement over three to five seconds. Saw McZeal draw his gun as the two faced each other within two feet of each other. Fran toward the entrance door. As she reached the door, she heard one gunshot. She did not see the shooting. |
| turned back toward McZeal and Franco, and saw Franco look at her, then run toward her as she stood inside near the door did did not know where the order were at the time. We tried to close the door, then ran into an aisle to avoid him. It turned to see where Franco was, and saw Franco, standing near the bathroom, look at her then take a couple of steps in her direction. She saw another deputy arrive at the front door. McZeal told her to step outside, which she did. Franco was by the bathroom door with his arm around waist with her back against his torso in a bear hug. A deputy was telling Franco, "Let her go!" saw Franco push down, and heard noise and commotion in the back, but could no longer see what was going on. Moments later tran to her and they stayed outside for the duration of the incident. |

Video Evidence

McZeal, Barrera, and Fuqua were not wearing body-worn video cameras.

The had multiple exterior and interior surveillance cameras, two of which captured portions of the interaction between McZeal and Franco, including the shooting, from different angles. Portions of the interactions between Franco and McZeal inside the are captured by several different cameras at different angles.

Camera 4: The camera is angled diagonally toward the gas pumps closest to the store's front entrance just out of view on the left, between the two potted plants

As Barrera's police vehicle approached, with flashing red and blue overhead emergency lights activated. Franco aggressively charged at McZeal

Franco pushed McZeal back and reached for McZeal's gun which was holstered on his right hip

Franco grabbed McZeal and placed him in a "bear ling."

Franco reached again for McZeal's firearm after McZeal broke free from Franco's bear hug-

Franco continued to reach toward McZeal's gun as McZeal unholstered it.

McZeal pointed his service weapon at Franco from a "close contact" position as Franco's left arm extended toward McZeal's gun

McZeal fired his service weapon at Franco's torso utilizing a close contact position, which caused Franco to momentarily contract his left arm inward, away from McZeal's gun.

McZeal fired his service weapon again at Franco's torso utilizing a close contact position, which caused Franco to jump back and away from McZeal.

Camera 12: This camera faces forward and is directly in front of the left-most gas pump from the store entrance.

Franco's arm is again extended toward McZeal's gun as McZeal fires his service weapon a third time toward Franco's torso.

The time stamps on the video recordings from Cameras 4 and 12 show that McZeal fired his service weapon three times within a one-second span of time, from 9:55:43 p.m. to 9:55:44 p.m.¹¹

Physical Evidence

McZeal was armed with his department-approved Smith & Wesson, Model M&P, 9mm semiautomatic handgun. The maximum capacity for this handgun is 18 cartridges. After the shooting an examination of the handgun and magazine revealed that there were 15 cartridges.

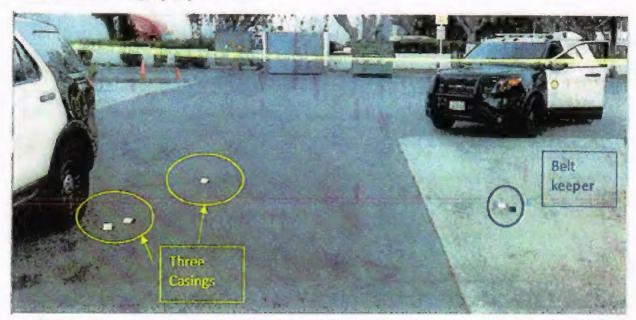

Three expended 9mm cartridge casings were recovered from the ground between the gas pumps and McZeal's patrol vehicle, close to the vehicle's rear driver-side.

A photograph of McZeal's equipment belt taken after the shooting showed both of the two belt keepers at his rear were missing, 12 which is consistent with force applied to the belt housing McZeal's holstered service weapon.

¹¹ The time stamps do not reflect the actual time of the shooting, but do reflect the amount of time between the shots.

¹² A belt keeper is a rectangular piece of leather with a snap closure that is used by law enforcement officers to attach the outer equipment belt to an inner trouser belt, so that the belt remains in place. Law enforcement officers typically place four belt keepers around the equipment belt, two in the front of the body, two in the rear of the body, to secure the equipment on the entire belt. Surveillance video from inside the secure prior to the shooting

One belt keeper was recovered from the ground between the gas pumps and McZeal's patrol vehicle, closer to the gas pumps.

Charges Filed Against Franco

Franco was charged in case number KA119664 with felony violations of Penal Code sections 236, false imprisonment by violence of 245(c), assault upon a peace officer with a deadly weapon and with force likely to cause great bodily injury and death; 210.5, false imprisonment of a hostage; and 148(d), resisting, delaying or obstructing an officer by attempting to remove a firearm from the person or immediate presence of McZeal. The case is set for a preliminary hearing setting in Department F of Pomona Superior Court on March 24, 2020.

LEGAL ANALYSIS

A police officer may use reasonable force to effect an arrest, prevent escape, or overcome resistance of a person the officer believes has committed a crime. Penal Code section 835a. An officer "may use all the force that appears to him to be necessary to overcome all resistance, even to the taking of life; [an officer is justified in taking a life if] the resistance [is] such as appears to the officer likely to inflict great bodily injury upon himself or those acting with him." People v. Mehserle (2012) 206 Cal.App.4th 1125, 1146.

According to California law, a person acted in lawful self-defense or defense of another if (1) he reasonably believed that he or someone else was in imminent danger of being killed or suffering great bodily injury and (2) he reasonably believed that the immediate use of deadly force was necessary to defend against that danger. CALCRIM No. 505.

recorded McZeal's equipment belt and the locations of the belt keepers holding it in place. Two were in the rear, on either side of McZeal's spine.

In evaluating whether a police officer's use of deadly force was reasonable in a specific situation, it is helpful to draw guidance from the objective standard of reasonableness adopted in civil actions alleging Fourth Amendment violations. "The 'reasonableness' of a particular use of force must be judged from the perspective of a reasonable officer on the scene, rather than the 20/20 vision of hindsight... The calculus of reasonableness must embody allowance for the fact that police officers are often forced to make split-second judgments—in circumstances that are tense, uncertain, and rapidly evolving—about the amount of force that is necessary in a particular situation." Graham v. Connor (1989) 490 U.S. 386, 396-397.

Actual danger is not necessary to justify the use of deadly force in self-defense. If one is confronted by the appearance of danger which one believes, and a reasonable person in the same position would believe, would result in death or great bodily injury, one may act upon those circumstances. The right of self-defense is the same whether the danger is real or merely apparent. People v. Toledo (1948) 85 Cal. App.2d 577.

California law permits any person to use deadly force in self-defense or in the defense of others if he actually and reasonably believed that he or others were in imminent danger of great bodily injury or death. CALCRIM No. 3470; see also People v. Randle (2005) 35 Cal.4th 987, 994 (overruled on another ground in People v. Chun (2009) 45 Cal.4th 1172, 1201); People v. Humphrey (1996) 13 Cal.4th 1073, 1082. In protecting himself or another, a person may use all the force which he believes reasonably necessary and which would appear to a reasonable person, in the same or similar circumstances, to be necessary to prevent the injury which appears to be imminent. CALCRIM No. 3470. If the person's beliefs were reasonable, the danger does not need to have actually existed. Id.

In the instant matter, Franco repeatedly and aggressively charged McZeal and attempted to remove and take McZeal's service weapon from McZeal's holster. Given Franco's aggressive actions McZeal reasonably believed that, if Franco was successful, Franco would then use McZeal's gun to shoot and kill McZeal. The fact that McZeal's rear belt keepers unsnapped and fell during the struggle, corroborates that Franco was attempting to remove or take McZeal's duty weapon. McZeal, forced to make a split-second decision and reasonably fearing for his life, fired three shots from his service weapon.

CONCLUSION

We find that Deputy Clarence McZeal acted lawfully in self-defense when he used deadly force against Rashaad Franco. We are closing our file and will take no further action in this matter.
